From Our Superintendent

Dear Forty-Oners:

With photographs of your class and your High School building before me, I find myself wishing I were something of a clairvoyant that I might see each of you annually during the next five years and have you relate your yearly successes and disappointments. To live with you for only four years in High School and then have you say goodbye distresses me. Surely our school should follow you for at least another five years with sympathetic understanding and counsel while you pursue your educational interests in other schools of experience, either in college or with the realities of a job.

Speaking of the realities, your future, especially for the next decade, demands that you be realists as perhaps no previous class has been called upon to become. You are already aware of the reasons supporting the truth of this statement. None of us can shut out the news of the world as it screams from headlines and radios. While you try to keep your minds on your studies, you hear the roar of planes and tanks, the crash of bursting bombs and shells, the plunge of sinking ships, simultaneously with the depth bomb producing ocean geysers; and, alas, you hear the rhythm of marching feet.

These phenomena are merely the outward manifestations of inward revolutionary changes in process throughout the world. You and your fellow American youth face perhaps the swiftest and most revolutionary changes ever faced by human beings. The world will never again be as we older persons have known it and as you will remember it during your public school days.

While you face current problems of unemployment, lawlessness, divorce, delinquency, and insecurity as well as traditional resistance to progress, nothing is quite so certain as continuous change. May we not therefore conclude that one of the most important abilities you must develop is adjustability to change with respect to both people and things—to advances in social and technological progress. Those practical or academic skills we learn today may be outmoded tomorrow, but we shall always need to know how to understand and get on with people and how to adapt our life to changes, at the same time maintaining our personal integrity and individual convictions as to what constitutes the good life.

If you drive your car through a crowded street you know you must be ready for a shift of gears, the use of emergency brakes, or for a signal to or from another car to stop. Moreover, other abilities you need in this typical life situation are an understanding of how the car is operated and your responsibility for doing the right thing at the right second; in other words, the power of sustained attention and of correct speedy action or reaction. Are not these same powers demanded in most of our modern life situations?

If you will add to these abilities the spiritual qualities of service to man and God and base all these on an understanding and practice of democracy in all phases of life, you may not only increasingly enrich your own life but also add to the happiness and improvement of society whether it be in college, in industry, on the farm, at home, in church or community. Lives directed by these influences realistically applied will not only perpetuate our American way of living, but when joined with other millions throughout the world, must eventually bring sanity, freedom and democracy back to a universe now war torn and bleeding but ultimately controllable by the unbreakable spirit of free men and women.

In the meantime I believe in your courage, pray for your guidance, and hereby rededicate myself for any service I can render you now or at any time in the future. I believe you will accept today's changes as tomorrow's challenge to remake and stabilize a world in which youth will have an increasingly important part to play and ever larger contributions to make.

With unshakable faith in you and the future of your country, I am

Always your friend,

ALLISON W. HONEYCUTT.

Senior Prophecy

Ladies and gentlemen, I am reporting from the Ritz Hotel in New York City where the C. H. H. S. class of 1941 is having an anniversary party. Sammy Andrews' famous band is providing the music. Ah! The people are beginning to arrive. Here comes that glamorous movie star Dorothy Blocksidge with her producer husband, Paul Boger. Here comes that speed demon, Walter Curtis, who has broken all racing records. Entering now is the heavyweight boxing champion, T. A. Hearn, with his manager, C. J. Simpson.

Our master of ceremonies, Paul Green, is now announcing that trio of jazz singers, Billie Williams, Margaret Taylor, and Edna Riggsbee.

Entering now are Jean Pegram, Jean Logan, and Felder Baldwin—hostess, dietitian, and nurse respectively of Fort Bragg with Col. Ralph Cheek, Lt. Charles Stanford, and Private John Keller.

Here's someone peddling toothbrushes. Why it is Wayne Williams and his wife, Elizabeth Maynard. They seem to be making a sale. It's to the famous playwright, Mary Smith, who is with the great Shakespearean actor, Billy Durham.

I see Bill Koch, the millionaire playboy, with Mary Jane Lloyd, this year's glamour girl. They are talking to Taylor Hogan, Naval Reserve Officer, and Allen Claywell, Math teacher.

I see Deborah Lewis at a corner table with Allen Garrett, who is her latest passion since she divorced her third husband, Gustave Harrer. Incidentally Gus, who is now a preacher, is with the great artist Miriam Lawrence.

Here comes Rachel Athas with Glen Haydon. With them are Charles Stanford and Louise Milam.

Thomas Odum is now coming on to do his bird imitation act. He got started on Edward Canada's amateur hour. He is amusing Lloyd Gardner and Edward Burks very much. They are now co-presidents of a young ladies school of needlework. Nearby is all-American Dallas Durham with his secretary, Amy Riggsbee.

Over there are Jim Evans and Virginia Sloan. They are both teaching French, one at Harvard and the other at Vassar.

We find the final attraction of the evening is about to draw to a close with the unusual singing of a men's quartet composed of Decatur Jones, Allen Brandon, Robert Blackwood, and Charles Campbell.

GLADYS WAGER,

The History of Our Class

Perhaps it would be better if we should leave the past to sleep and “the dead moments to bury their dead,” but since the final evening of our high school days is drawing nearer, and recollections come “as the memory of a dream, which is sad because it hath been sweet,” and cluster in our minds, to let those who come after know what we have done, we now set down the history of our class.

The great adventure of the glorious first day has left an indelible impression on all our minds. We can remember the admiration and envy with which we saw the president of the student body, Pat Winston, actually speak to our superintendent, Mr. Honeycutt. But the wonder and the awe of the first day wore off. The school became more familiar; we went up the wrong steps—once—and our cocky self-satisfaction began to grow. Just when our pride was becoming unbearable for a freshman, we became sophomores, one step higher on the ladder.

Gales Perry was the president of the student body in 1938-39. His qualities of leadership and dignity might well have been the ideals of our class, which certainly needed ideals. We were typical sophomores. We lorded it whenever we could, with an eye on the nearest door, and our theme song, like the theme song of each year's sophomores, began with the words “Wrong steps, freshman!” Yet, as the year passed, we became more occupied with geometry and our other studies, and by a gradual change we became—

JUNIORS! It has been said that the junior year is the great changing period of high school life. The year before, one is a sophomore, knowing all there is to know and more; the year after, one becomes a senior, realizing how little one really knows, preparing to live in earnest.

The great event of our junior year was the junior-senior dance. After a great deal of work to get money, we held the dance in the Carolina Inn. Everyone had a good time. This third year was really a successful one. Under the capable leadership of Marvin Hogan, everything went well in the school, and we reached the top of the ladder to become seniors.

One of our own number, Charles Pullen, has been student president this year. A great many changes have taken place. The regular type of study hall has been abolished, and a much better system established. The library has been enlarged, and many other improvements made.

It is through one person that we have been enjoying student government in our four years of high school. This person is our superintendent, Mr. Honeycutt. It was by his efforts that the student council was established in the year before we were freshmen, and his expert guidance has led the school since then into becoming one of the outstanding schools of the state. He has fitted the school to the students' needs, rather than fitting the students to the school. He is due our lasting gratitude.

Freshmen, sophomores, juniors, seniors—we have been all of them. Members of our class have been outstanding in every activity. Our class has had leaders in football and in basketball. We can say truthfully that we have all kinds of people ready for the "great and noble service of the world." We are ready now to begin our lives—for

"at the flaming forge of life
Our fortunes must be wrought;
Thus on its sounding anvil shaped
Each burning deed and thought."

With many memories, and some regrets, we prepare to leave our high school and our friends. We anticipate new associations and new conquests with joy, and are in readiness for whatever may come.

WAYNE WILLIAMS,

Class Poem

Since our youth is dying
Our burdens are weighing more,
But we must glance around to see
Just what we did before.

We started out as freshmen
Took charge of all the grounds,
To let the upperclassmen
Know we were proper nouns.

We journeyed our way to sophomores,
To meet all P's and Q's,
To gain our share of education
That we may some day use.

We found ourselves then juniors
And second in the races,
But as we look back to see the rest
We call ourselves all aces.

But oh now we are seniors
And now we are supreme,
But as we close our eyes and bow our heads,
It all seems like a dream.

C. J. SIMPSON,
Class Poet.

Last Will and Testament

We, the members of the graduating (we hope) class of the Chapel Hill High School do, of our own free will, wish to record before witnesses (numbering about 400) this, the following, as our LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT (just in case we pass on).

I Max Edney bequeaths his dancing ability to Frank Withers in the fond hope that he'll use it to good advantage.

II Gladys Wager's bee-utiful curls go to the MacMillan twins to be equally divided between them.

III George Hellen is ceremoniously bequeathed the flirting genius of the one, the only, the original Taylor Hogan.

IV Lloyd Gardner leaves all his various talents to anyone who wants them.

V Judy Clark is presented C. J. Simpson's angelic ways in the hope that she'll use them.

VI Decatur (Bobo) Jones's han'some face goes back to Durham, that is if Boris Karloff doesn't want it.

VIII T. A. Hearn, class baby extraordinary, leaves his cuteness to Mr. Conrad.

IX To James Gooch goes Bill Koch's executive ability.

X Tommy Odum's prize-winning specimen of the Green-Bellied Dodo goes to Mrs. Fuller to go on her new hat.

XII To Watts Poe is presented the tennis-playing ability of Walter Curtis.

XIII Paul Boger's quiet ways go to Betsy Bowman.

XIV Allen Garrett's wonderful musical ability is bequeathed to Anne Holmes.

XV Yang-yang's quiet dignity goes to Margaret Hagood who can certainly use a little of it.

XVI To Louise Pendergraft is bequeathed Miriam's (heh-heh) bashfulness.

XVII James Perry wills a few of his extra inches to Kitty Rogerson.

XVIII Wayne Williams presents his ability to talk in words of nine syllables and get away with it to Peter Hexner.

A collage of 20 black and white photographs from the 1940s, showing students in various settings. The photos are arranged in a grid-like fashion, with some larger and some smaller. The subjects are primarily young people, likely students, in various poses and settings. Some photos show groups of students, while others are individual portraits. The settings include classrooms, outdoors, and what appears to be a school building. The overall tone is nostalgic and captures a slice of mid-20th-century student life.

The 1940 Edition of the Chapel Hill "Wildcats" won fewer games than some teams in the past, but they did have just as much fight as any team Chapel Hill has ever turned out. The team under the tutelage of "Coach" Peacock played five tough games and lost them the tough way. All the scores were close.

The team opened its schedule with a 4-0 setback by Hanes High of Winston-Salem. The team was led by two inexperienced quarterbacks, Monk Jennings and Sam Hooker, but they both gave creditable performances. The Hanes High team won on two blocked kicks in the end-zone. Bruce Collins led the offensive for the Wildcats. Ed Canada, Dallas Durham, and Lawrence Fore led the defensive attack.

The next week was spent preparing for a game we wanted to win more than any other, that with our county seat rivals, Hillsboro. We started fine and marched forty yards in the first quarter to have Collins carry the ball over from the one-yard stripe. We held this 6-0 lead until the closing minutes of the game when Hillsboro, aided by a fifteen-yard penalty, put a quick one across and added the extra point to take home a hard fought 7-6 victory.

The next game was with Asheboro. The day was hot and the dust just stood over the field. We got off to a fast start to score in the opening minutes. Three times during the first half we marched down to the ten-yard line but were unable to push one across. Upset by a very hot sun and a dusty field, the Chapel Hillians were pushed off their feet the second half and a seventy-yard run on the end of an intercepted pass gave Asheboro the 12-7 victory.

The next week we were the hosts to Grey High, the 17th ranking team in the state. For three and a half quarters the Chapel Hill team put up a fight that any student body would be proud of, but the Grey team put up an aerial attack that scored on a series of short passes. Chapel Hill came back in the closing minutes with a passing attack that kept the visiting team in hot water until the closing whistle.

When the time for the last game arrived, "Coach" carried a "never say die" team to Burlington, to be the guests of the Burlington "Bulldogs." Determined to have one victory, Chapel Hill put on an attack that was unbeatable. Led by power driving Bruce Collins the Wildcats scored in the first and third quarters to win by the score of 13-0.

The School gave sixteen gold footballs to boys who played outstanding ball during the season. Those in the backfield receiving awards were quarterbacks: Monk Jennings and Sam Hooker; fullback: Bruce Collins; halfbacks: Charles Pullen and Faison Sessoms. In the line: ends—Robert Blackwood, Homer Lloyd, Bill Webb, Gene Crawford; tackles—Coy Durham, Lawrence Fore, Jack Lloyd, Bill Durham; guards—Ed Canada and Dallas Durham; center—Thomas McFarland.

Returning lettermen are Jennings, Hooker, Sessoms, H. Lloyd, Webb, Crawford, C. Durham, Fore, J. Lloyd, and McFarland.

The Chapel Hill High School girls' basketball team, coached by Mr. Peacock, had a very brief schedule of three games, all of which were lost by narrow margins. The games were played in town, two with the University Cafeteria girls and one with the team of local secretaries. The team also engaged in several intramural games.

The team was composed of Mary Jane Lloyd, Betsy Anne Barbee, Bill Lloyd, Eloise Poe, Anne Rogers, Rosita Gutierrez, Frances Privette, Alice Lee Merritt, and Mary Elizabeth Pell at forward positions; Anne Holmes, Snooky Phipps, Edith Pell, Jean Pegram, Phyllis Bradshaw, Betty Vashaw, and Helen Crockford at guard positions. The team was very ably managed by "Ju Ju" Newsome. It is hoped that next year the girls may play more games, particularly with the teams of the University Co-ed League.

With all the first team back, the "Wildcats" were sitting pretty with a winning basketball team this year.

The season got under way with the "Cats" turning back the "Red Devils" of Graham 34-9.

Playing smooth basketball the team gave the University Freshmen a close run for their money in both games between the two very polished teams, the scores: 27-24; 18-17.

After playing under-par ball in the first of a series with Hillsboro, the "Cats" took the sting out of the "Yellow-Jackets" by a score of 26-12. This is the first time that the "Wildcats" have defeated the Hillsboro aggregation since Earl Ruth coached here.

Our tennis team started the season with a brilliant victory over Southern Pines, a team which was considered our equal, by a 7-1 margin. So, for one week we had an unbeaten team, but the next match, which was with Raleigh, was not so successful. The three doubles matches were dropped to give the boys from Needham-Broughton a 6-3 win. Walter Curtis and Paul Boger both were forced to play into third sets which they won without difficulty. Bill Koch took his match in straight sets. Perhaps the biggest heart-breaker of the season was against Durham High. This was undoubtedly the most powerful team met this season and they defeated our boys by 9-0. Nevertheless, Coach Conrad was not discouraged and pushed the team on in a hard fought, return match with Raleigh, though our boys ended with only 2 points to Raleigh's 6. In this match Bill Koch, playing No. 3, won his singles. Curtis and Poe defeated Raleigh's No. 1 doubles team in straight sets. The last two games of the season were with Southern Pines there and with Durham High, to whom we were hosts.

The members of the tennis team thank the Student Council for its backing, both financially and otherwise.

Chapel Hill's baseball team had to get off to an early start this season because they were entered in the Class "B" Conference. They started off with a "bang" and a 10-2 victory over Bragtown. For a return engagement they won by the score of 8-0. This put the Chapel Hill team on top of the conference ladder.

Their next conference games were with a strong Cary nine which was taken into camp in both engagements by scores of 12-2 and 1-0. The last game was a real pitcher's battle between Homer Lloyd and Mathews.

Although Homer allowed but two hits and fanned an even dozen men, Chapel Hill lost a 2-0 decision to its Orange County rivals, Hillsboro. Both teams gathered two hits that afternoon but Hillsboro's came at the most opportune moments. In their second tilt Chapel Hill collected five hits to Hillsboro's two but we still lost another heartbreaker 2-1. This loss put the Wildcats out of the conference race.

The Chapel Hill team was composed of the following members: Homer Lloyd and Roger Thrift, pitchers; Coy Durham, catcher; Jack Lasley and Douglas Eubanks, first base; Joe Gutierrez, second base; Howard Hobby, short stop; Robert Blackwood and Alfred Kirkland, third base; and the following outfielders; James Perry, Jack Lloyd, Carlyle Wilson, Harry Bartlett, and Raymond Perry.

The Dramatics Class is a new course started this year by Mrs. William Peery. Besides becoming more familiar with the theatre, the class took some speech work during the first six-weeks. Some time was spent in putting on three one-act plays: Little Darling, The Boor, Antic Spring. The plays helped the class not only in a financial way, but also in a practical manner.

The next thing the students studied was play writing. Four plays were entered in the Carolina Dramatic Association Contest. Of these Walter Carroll's play, Comin' for to Carry, took first place over other High School original plays, and was recommended for production in the Festival.

At the beginning of the second semester, Miss Emily Johnson of the Carolina Playmakers took over the class. The production of Comin' for to Carry was then started. The cast included: Shirley Graves, Walter Carroll, Charles Campbell, Gene Crawford, Billy Durham, Decatur Jones. The play, produced at the Carolina Drama Festival, took first place for play-writing over those done in other High Schools.

The students of this year's class feel that it has been very successful, and look forward to an increased interest in the drama in coming years.

The purpose of the Radio Class has been to use the radio as a means of integrating the educational experiences of the pupils in the Radio Class.

As a result of the first semester's work on developing better listening habits, a radio survey was made in order that the Radio Class might find out which programs the pupils listened to, and what problems they were interested in. From this came the series of thirteen weekly broadcasts based on their interests and needs as they were revealed in the survey.

The programs which were given over Station WPTF in Raleigh were: Frustration of Youth, Home and School Problems, Boy-Girl Relationships, Personal Social Problems, War, National Defense, Health, Education of Youth, Vocations, Unemployment, Crime, Safety, and Democracy.

The faculty members assisting the class by taking programs were: Miss Henderson, Mr. Conrad, Mr. Wadsworth, Miss Miller, Mr. Peacock, Miss Swendiman, and Mr. Honeycutt. The guests appearing on the programs were: Dr. W. D. Perry, Dr. Gladys Hoagland Groves, Dr. Frank Graham, and Dr. W. Carson Ryan.

The series, "Youth Wants to Know," has been given under the direction of Mrs. John J. Wolfe, chairman of the Audio-Visual Department of the North Carolina Education Association.

This year's thirty-member library staff has taken on more duties as the year has progressed. The renovation of the library caused some delay in getting started, but it was easily worth it, as it is now a more pleasant place in which to study. As soon as the remodeling was completed, each member of the staff dug in to do his best. Each staff member is a cog in a giant wheel which has been spinning faster and faster as the year has gone by. The hub of this wheel is our librarian who has guided the staff in its duties and the students in their studies—Miss Miller. The students are cogs in other wheels which spin along with the staff-wheel and these together comprise a whirling machine, which, as our year draws to a close, has yet to start slowing down.

It has been a most successful year for all concerned, and all are looking forward to Miss Miller's return next year to guide them through an even more successful year.

We have had a most enjoyable year under the direction of Mrs. Swalin. At Christmas everyone worked hard to present a Community Carol Candle-light Service, which was very impressive. To help provide money for transportation to Greensboro, a concert was given at which a silver offering was taken. A program for Easter and one for the Parent-Teacher Association were other highlights of the year. The most important event of all was the contest in Durham. Those receiving a rating of "I" were then allowed to go to the festival in Greensboro, where, after two days of instruction, a spectacular performance was given by several hundred high school students. The outcome of the Durham contest was as follows:

Girls' Chorus .....	Rating "I"
Girls' Trio .....	Rating "I"
Whitfield Lloyd	Miriam Lawrence
Lois McCauley
Mixed Quartet .....	Rating "I"
Whitfield Lloyd	Max Edney

ACTIVITIES

A collage of 20 black and white photographs from the 1940s, showing students in various settings. The photos are arranged in a grid-like fashion, with some larger and some smaller. The subjects are primarily young people, likely students, in various poses and settings. Some photos show groups of students, while others are individual portraits. The settings include classrooms, outdoors, and what appears to be a school building. The overall tone is candid and historical.

The Student Council started the year by putting out a handbook that was very helpful both to the freshmen and the new teachers. Then it opened the school store which is the council's source of income and with this it helps the Publications Union (particularly the Annual), Sports, Dramatics, and other organizations. Outstanding students of the school were chosen to go to the Kiwanis meeting as Junior Kiwanians. It then sponsored a clean-up campaign that helped the school's appearance considerably. It also started an employment bureau which it hopes will be carried on by the council of next year.

The Student Council has initiated a movement to revise its constitution. We believe that the Council, under the leadership of Charles Pullen has had a successful year in that the chief objective toward which we were striving—to bring about a better understanding between the Student Council, the Student Body, and the Faculty—has been approached.

Accordingly, student polls, panel discussions, and understanding talks with the faculty have helped the council to know student opinion and secure the cooperation of the student body.

Under the able direction of Miss Childs the Proconian has been going places this year. Thanks to the journalism class, which has been publishing the paper, it has improved in neatness, organization, content, and appearance.

In the early fall Raymond Strowd, following in his brother's footsteps, was elected Editor-in-chief, along with Ralph Cheek as associate editor; James Perry, sports editor; Roland Giduz, exchange editor; and Judith Clark, feature editor. This staff, with the aid of the remainder of the class, ran the paper until February, when it was decided to have various groups to be responsible for an issue. So far this plan has been highly satisfactory with every member of the class participating in the different jobs on a newspaper.

Some of the new attractions of the Proconian are: a good crossword puzzle, a "Why It Is" column which deals with school problems, and a "Here and There" feature playing up high-school-student-frequented-places around town.

We're pretty proud of the Proconian this year. Let's hope it continues to live up to its standards.

The "Scroll," our school magazine, was first issued in the fall of 1939. Frances Bason and Daphne Athas, the first editors of this publication, were largely responsible for its creation and establishment. It was issued on the condition that there be no commercial advertisements; consequently it depends upon the Student Council for its maintenance.

The first "Scroll" of ten pages has been lengthened to sixteen or eighteen pages; instead of a few illustrations, the aim now is one drawing a page; covers are planned attractively so that they catch the eye. The "Scroll" this year has made noticeable progress under its new editor, Harriet Sanders, and we hope it will keep up its splendid work in the future. Although our magazine is only a monthly publication it is now just as important as the school newspaper.

It has long been the custom for each senior class to have a yearbook as a sort of "who's who" and as a record of what the class has done. Shortly after Christmas the class of 1940-41 went to work on the annual for this year. Bill Koch was elected editor-in-chief with Mary Jane Lloyd as business manager. The money was collected for the individual annuals and added to the money made previously in the year by dances and other social affairs. The special feature writers and the class poet were elected early in February, and the literary staff's work was well under way on its big assignment. Meanwhile the business staff started on its work of getting the rest of the money together—through the generosity of the Student Council and through ads which required a lot of work to get. During March all the individual senior pictures and school activity photographs were taken. The annual was ready for the printers early in April. Now that all the work is done, we hope you like the annual that we have worked on for such a long time and with so much industry.

The Chapel Hill 4-H Club has had a meeting each month this school year, and the year has been successful from every standpoint. The officers for the year were: President, Alton Riley; Vice President, Preston Hogan; Secretary and Treasurer, Gilmer Lasley; and chairman of program, Coy Durham. The club has a membership of thirty. They have one main project in the school, namely the refinishing of worn desks. Each member has a home project for the year; these include the raising of chickens, hogs and calves, the growing of corn, home gardening, and forest work.

Shelton Womble won first place for the calf raising contest; David Foley won first place in home gardening; and Jessie Riley won first place in chicken raising. Each of these boys got a week's free trip to attend the State College Short Course. The Health King of Orange County, Preston Hogan, is a member of our club.

This has been one of the most successful years that we have had since there has been a 4-H Club in our school. We hope more will join next year and that our club will be beneficial to all.
